Central Texas has a rich history and vibrant culture. Starting in the 1840's settlers that came here found the terrain tough and the climate even tougher. As one settler once observed, "if it doesn't stick you, it will bite you". Central Texas can be a Spring paradise and turn into dust bowl in a matter of a few weeks. The Mason Heritage Foundation has been supporting this rich history, culture, and people of Central Texas since 1984.

Based upon the principles of "integrity, safety, service and accountability", Pedernales Electric Cooperative has been supporting the people of Central Texas since 1938. This is no small task. The climate, the terrain, the rapid growth and economic rollercoaster are daily obstacles that the members and staff of PEC face. Through it all, PEC brings reliable electrical energy to the homes and business of Central Texas. Through programs like Power of Change, PEC provides financial support for over a hundred community service organizations making a direct impact to those in need.

Scott Powell is one of the PEC members that understands what it takes to overcome these daily struggles while keeping sight of the principles of "integrity, safety, service and accountability". A Native Texas, Scott has traveled the world and has chosen Central Texas as his home. True to his Texas roots, Scott has strength of character, knowledge and the wherewithal to face whatever challenges come his way. It is this kind of Texan that we need as our new PEC District 5 Director.

The Mason Heritage Foundation proudly endorses Scott Powell for PEC District 5 Director and asks you to join us with your support for "integrity, safety, service and accountability".
